

CAN CITIES DONATE THE ARMORY SITES?

Guardsmen of State Interested in Case Before the Supreme Court.

ATTORNEY GEN. TURNER SAYS THEY CAN'T

Film "Birth of a Nation" Revised and Seeking Answer for O. K. From the State Board of Censors—Veteran Sergeant-at-Arms Ill.

Special Columbus Correspondent.

Columbus, Jan. 5.—Every municipality in the state which has a National Guard company or other guard organization will be interested in the outcome of a suit which was argued to the supreme court to determine whether or not a municipality may donate a site to the state for an armory. The suit is that of the Clemmer & Johnson Co. of Hicksville to compel the attorney general to approve a contract awarded the company for the erection of a fine new armory at Akron. Attorney General Turner ruled that the action of the city of Akron in transferring a site to the state for the armory was in violation of the constitution and that hence no contract could be legally made with the company. If the attorney general is sustained Akron will be thwarted in its efforts of several years to build the finest armory in the state, and the title of the state in a number of other armories will be rendered defective.

Still Trying to Get Film Into State. Ohio may yet get a chance to see "The Birth of a Nation." Some time ago the state board of moving picture censors refused to allow this exhibit to be shown, this action causing no little contention. The owners of the picture have made alterations in it and now hope to get it approved so that it can be shown in Ohio. When the picture was before the board, one of the three members voted to pass it with certain alterations, while the other two voted against it. There was much feeling on the part of the owner when the board refused to approve the picture, as it had been shown in many other states and had been pronounced by critics to be the greatest film ever produced.

Want a $5,000 Job? Here's One. Columbus is in the market for a new school superintendent. The job pays $5,000 a year and so is reasonably well worth going after. J. A. Shawan, who has been superintendent for 20 years or more, announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election at the close of his present term, next June. Shawan's successor will be chosen in May. The board of education will consider applicants from both within and outside of the state.

Veteran Sergeant-at-Arms Ill. Col. Fred Blankner, the veteran assistant sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives, has been attacked by his old enemy—rheumatism—and is in a serious condition. The colonel is 80 years old and excepting in the session of two years ago he has held his present position for nearly 60 years. He was promptly given his old place back by the present house as soon as it organized. The colonel began serving the house before the Civil war, and during the war he was furloughed by his regiment so that he could return to Columbus to fill his place.

Chance to Sell Your Bedbugs. Bedbugs are selling at the rate of 10 cents a hundred in the Columbus market just now. A market price was set when Percy B. Weltberger, a graduate student in the Ohio State university, who is making a specialty of entomology, advertised for an unlimited number of the insects for experimental purposes. Prof. Weltberger, who took his bachelor's degree here last year, is just now studying for his master's degree. In explanation of his peculiar advertisement he explained that he was making an exhaustive study of the agency of these insects that inhabit the homes of men and belongs to what are called the blood-sucking insects, in spreading diseases. It was generally believed, he said, that they were as effective in spreading certain diseases, such as typhus fever, as the mosquito was known to be with malaria, but so far as he knew no one had yet caught the bedbug with the goods on it. He wants to establish the truth of the matter by a series of experiments which he will proceed to make. "Bedbugs are pretty scarce," said Prof. Weltberger. "In this city, I undertook to gather enough for some experiments myself, but after exploring a number of abandoned houses, in which one would suppose they would be found if they were anywhere, I gave it up after getting only a half dozen, which is not enough to begin with, and have advertised."

War Affects Price of Grease. By the bids for the grease developed in the Columbus garbage reduction plant for the year 1916 it looks as though the war in Europe is to be worth at least $17,000 to Columbus, for at the usual rate of production the contract will produce that much more money for the city than it did in 1915. The purchaser is the E. L. Schroll Co. of Philadelphia. It pays the city $5.16 a hundred weight for the grease. The increased price is due to the increase in the price of all oils.

IT IS A BUSY DAY FOR WHITEHOUSE MISTRESS

First Lady of Land Takes Up Active Direction of Domestic Affairs—Cabinet Members and Wives Leave Cards

Washington, Jan. 5.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, the new first lady of the land, took her place as mistress of the White House for the first time Tuesday.

Within less than an hour after she and the president reached Washington on their return from their honeymoon Mrs. Wilson was directing household affairs at the White House. Mrs. Wilson and the president had their breakfast served upstairs. After that the president plunged at once into his official affairs and Mrs. Wilson went about her new duties.

The apartments of the president and Mrs. Wilson were filled with orchids and other flowers in anticipation of their return. Mrs. Wilson took her place at the head of the table in the state diningroom when the others present were the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. McAdoo, Mrs. Anna Wilson Howe, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Mrs. William E. Bolling, Mrs. Josephine Howe Cochran and baby Josephine Cochran. The dinner was prepared from a menu written out and handed to the housekeeper by Mrs. Wilson. It included a number of the president's favorite dishes.

OHIO RAIL M'N'G'R DEAD?

MYSTERY OF EAST LIVERPOOL MAN'S DISAPPEARANCE IS UNSOLVED.

East Liverpool, O., Jan. 5.—Investigation by business associates and his family had failed to solve the mystery of the disappearance of W. R. W. Griffin, president of the Allah Oil Co. and manager of the Steubenville, Weirton & Wellsburg Railway Co. from the steamer Providence, while en route from New York to Boston last Friday.

His family was advised that Griffin's handbag, containing $50,000 worth of stock certificates and 199 shares of oil stock, had been found in a locked stateroom on the boat.

Griffin, who had been in the east three months, was in poor health. His family believes he missed the boat after placing his baggage aboard. Others suggest the theory he fell overboard.

Bryan Testifies, Then Protests. New York, Jan. 5.—William Jennings Bryan, former secretary of state, testified before trial and purged himself of any possible contempt of court. He told what he knew about the sale of two ships by the American government to the Greek government. At the conclusion of the testimony he registered a protest against the New York law which imposed a financial burden on him in order that he might help out a litigant with testimony before trial. Bryan testified for Petros P. Tatanis in his libel action for $50,000 damages against the editors of the Greek paper Atlantis.

Dry Two Years, Votes Wet. Steubenville, O., Jan. 5.—Steubenville voted to bring back the open season after being dry for two years. The wet won a special election under the local option law by a majority of 272 votes. The total vote was: Wet 2,462, dry 2,191.

FIRST GUN AGAINST 'PREPAREDNESS'

Representative Sherwood of Ohio Makes Speech Bitterly Criticizing Wilson.

STAMPS MOVEMENT AS SIMPLY HYSTERIA

Naval Affairs Committee Begins Work on Naval Construction Program—Military Affairs Committee to Get Busy Wednesday.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The peace and preparedness fight got under way Tuesday in the house. Speeches, resolutions and bills for and against increased national defense and in favor of various peace proposals occupied the attention of the house. The opening gun in the battle against preparedness was fired by Representative Sherwood of Ohio, one of the oldest members of the house, a veteran of the Civil war. He bitterly criticized President Wilson's preparedness program in a speech charging that the preparedness propaganda was simply "hysteria" fostered by "militarists and armament manufacturers." From now on the fight over preparedness promises to be hot and continuous.

Today the naval affairs committee of the house begins its hearings on the naval construction program proposed by the administration, and Wednesday the military affairs committee will hear Secretary of War Garrison on his scheme for increasing and reorganizing the army.

Offers Peace Resolutions. Representatives Campbell of Kansas and Shallenberger of Nebraska introduced resolutions looking toward peace. Representative Shallenberger proposed a commission to seek "enduring peace," to include former President Taft, Supreme Court Justice Hughes, Chairman Flood of the house foreign affairs committee and Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee. Representative Campbell's scheme proposed a world confederation of nations modeled after the United States. It would provide a world constitution almost identical with the United States constitution. A president of the world confederation and a world congress, with a seat of government in Porto Rico, would administer the affairs of the world under the scheme, formulating and enforcing international law with a strict regard for the rights of the nations of the world.

The flood of bills appropriating money for armor plate plants, arsenals, navy stations, navy yards, dry docks and other war paraphernalia, which began before the holiday recess, continued. Hundreds of millions of dollars were represented in the measures introduced.

Amateur Break With President. Mr. Sherwood announced his break with the administration on the preparedness issue in these words:

"It is with deep regret that I am unable to agree with the president on his proposed plan of national defense. The president has rendered great service to the country by his superb diplomacy in keeping the country in the path of peace. I believe, however, he has mistaken the best popular judgment in his preparedness message. I believe the defeat of this scheme for extra taxation at this time when the federal treasury is bankrupt and lean will command the approval and support of a majority of the people."

FIGHT MEXICAN POLICY

ADMINISTRATION MUST MAKE A SATISFACTORY EXPLANATION TO REPUBLICANS.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The fight against the Mexican policy of the administration was launched in the senate today. Sen. (N. M.) introduced a resolution calling upon the president to inform the senate fully and completely concerning the facts with regard to conditions in Mexico and his recognition of Carranza.

Until the Republicans have received a satisfactory reply to this resolution they admit it is their purpose to prevent the confirmation of Henry Prather Fletcher, recently nominated to be ambassador to Mexico. Republican leaders say specifically they have no objection to Mr. Fletcher.

Extend Control of Munitions Plants. London, Jan. 5.—Official announcement was made that 392 establishments had been added to the munition works controlled by the government. The total number of these works is now 2,422.

Prisoners to Rebuild Town. Rome, Jan. 5.—The Bulgarian prisoners captured by the Serbians will be concentrated at Avezano. They will probably be employed to clear up the debris caused by the recent earthquake and rebuild the town.

Match Finds Leak; Recovering. Lorain, O., Jan. 5.—Peter Stele-mach, 18, detected escaping gas, went into the cellar with a lighted match in search of the leak. He is recovering in St. Joseph's hospital and the house is minus one side.

Girl Saves Boy Skaters. New York, Jan. 5.—Clutching the ankles of 18-year-old Rose Krauss as she hung from a bridge over a park lagoon, Clarence and John Carpenter, youthful skaters, were saved from drowning when the ice broke.

Get Rid of a Racking La Grippe Cough—It Weakens

For the severe racking cough that comes with a gripple, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is wonderfully healing and soothing. R. G. Collins, ex-postmaster, Barnegat, N. SWEETS FOR THE AFTERNOON

Some Novelties That Almost Any Woman Can Make for the Delight of Guests.

The search for the unusual occupies the time, or a big portion of it, of many men and women. Men who are running tiny "fancywork" shops, men who are managing huge manufacturing plants, women who spend most of their life in the pursuit of society, and women who spend it managing simply their own homes, all must seek novelties.

Here are some suggestions of unusual sweets that may interest the woman who tries to furnish tempting yet inexpensive food.

It is easy enough to buy a bit of French pastry at the confectioner's to give an unusual air to the afternoon tea tray—if one is willing to pay the bill. Here is a cheap dainty that will vie with those from the best confectioner: Make a rich, slightly sweetened biscuit dough and form it into small rounds. In the center of each place a pitted, stewed prune and pull up the edges to cover the prune entirely. Bake quickly a golden brown and serve hot.

For banbury tarts make good pie crust and roll it thin. Cut it into big circles, and in each place a spoonful of filling, bring the edges together and bake brown. Serve either hot or cold. To make the filling, mix a cup of seeded raisins, a cup of sugar, the juice and grated rind of a lemon and a beaten egg; cook for a few minutes until the egg thickens and cool before using.

To make stuffed cookies roll good sugar-cookie dough thin and cut in rounds. On half the rounds place a spoonful of the banbury-tart filling, put the other rounds over those with the filling, pinch the edges together and bake until done.

Make gingerbread of the soft variety with three-quarters of a cup of orange juice substituted for some of the other liquid. Bake it in muffin tins and serve with whipped cream.

KITCHEN "KINKS" OF VALUE

Good Substitute for Eggs When They Are Scarce—To Separate Whites From Yolks.

When eggs are scarce a teaspoonful of cornstarch can be made to take the place of one egg. When combined with eggs it makes puddings, cakes and pies lighter.

When the whites of eggs are used and the yolks are not wanted for several days, beat them up with a little cold water and put them away in a cool place. They will keep good for quite a while. If they are to be used for salad dressing the water must not be added.

When separating the whites from the yolks of eggs one will sometimes break the yolk into the white, in which case the whites do not beat light. Dip a clean cloth into warm water, wring dry, touch the yolk which has been dropped into the white with the cloth and it will cling to the cloth.

If you wish to save the shells, break away just enough of the smaller end of the shell to remove the contents. Then carefully wash the shells and put them away in a safe place. Later you may fill these shells with jelly, covering the broken end with paraffin paper. This is a convenient way to carry jelly for lunches.

Parasip Cakes. Take one large cupful of mashed parsnips, half a teaspoonful of salt, one egg, a heaping teaspoonful of good baking powder, in one cupful of flour and three-quarters of a cupful of milk. Stir the mixture till it is a smooth batter; then have some fat in a frying pan half an inch deep and drop the batter into it by spoonfuls. Brown it nicely on one side, then turn it. The cakes will be found most delicate and may be eaten alone or with any other course.

Satisfactory Sprinkling. Here is a method for sprinkling clothes which will be found very satisfactory. This saves a lot of trouble and prevents the hands from getting chapped in cold weather. Take an ordinary cork and cut a small fluting in it lengthwise. Fill a glass bottle with water and put the cork in it. When the bottle is shaken the fluted cork acts as a spray, sprinkling the water evenly over the clothes.

Grilled Sweet Potatoes. Boil large sweet potatoes with the skins on. When cool peel and slice in thick slices. Dip each slice in melted butter and broil on a hot gridiron. Dust with salt and paprika and serve very hot on a hot dish.

Prune and Raisin Pie. This is nice when you have left over prunes. Wash them and mix in a few raisins that have stood in boiling water for a few minutes, add a few drops of lemon juice, sugar to your taste. Bake in two crusts.

Stuffed Spanish Onion. Fill center of onion with chopped bacon or any other meat chopped fine and seasoned. Cook in a little milk in the oven or in a saucepan on the stove.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in dose from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

THE STORY OF MRS

QUACK-QUACK

Last summer Ethel visited her aunt who lived on a farm. Aunt Martha raised lots of chickens and ducks. Ethel was particularly interested in the baby ducks. There was one little brown and white duck that she made a pet of.

When it was time for Ethel to return home she hated to leave her pet duck, so Aunt Martha said: "You may take the little duck home with you, Ethel. If you take good care of it, it will grow to be a big duck."

Uncle Jim cut holes in a shoe box and put the little duck in the box. Ethel carried the box carefully. In the trolley car she placed the box on the floor and the other passengers were amused to see the duck stick its head out of the hole.

When Ethel got home her mother asked: "What are you going to do with that duck? I am afraid it will be lonesome by itself. If you put it in the chicken yard the chickens will pick it and probably kill it."

"No I don't think the chickens will hurt it. At Aunt Martha's the chickens and ducks run together," replied Ethel.

At first the chickens were afraid of the little duck, but after a short time they became friends with it. The little duck grew and grew until it became a big duck. Then Ethel named it Mrs. Quack-Quack, because when she talked to it, it answered: "Quack-Quack."

When spring came Ethel began to look for duck eggs. One morning she found a big white egg on the floor of the chicken house. After that there was an egg nearly every morning. Ethel said: "Mrs. Quack-Quack lays a fresh egg for my breakfast."

Just a few days ago Mrs. Quack-Quack began to act queer. When Ethel's mother went into the chicken yard the duck would try to bite her skirts and would make a hissing noise. said Mrs. Morris: "I believe that duck wants to set."

Ethel wrote and told her aunt about Mrs. Quack-Quack. Aunt Martha sent 13 duck eggs for the duck to set on. So a nest was made on the floor of the chicken house and Mrs. Quack-Quack is sitting patiently on the eggs.

Ethel can hardly wait for the four weeks to pass before the eggs will hatch. She expects to see 13 little baby ducks running around.

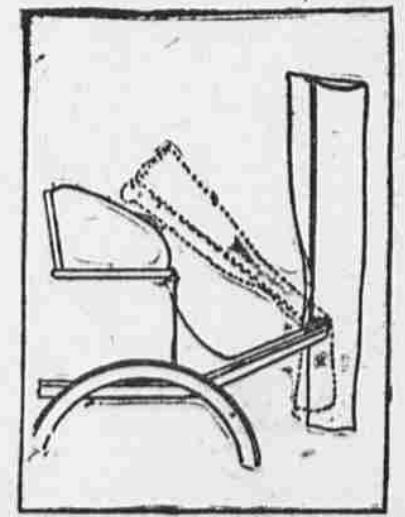

Mrs. Morris says: "Ethel don't count your ducks before they hatch."

Where live stock is a factor on the farm make every field hog-tight and sheep-tight; have thoroughly good permanent pastures; grow leguminous crops; build a silo; and keep only pure-bred males. These five things are absolutely essential in the economical production of live stock. Of course this program calls for some labor and expense, but the permanent condition of prosperity in the sections devoted to live stock production is proof of the good profit derived therefrom.

LAP-ROBE HOLDER.

Frame Fastened to Dashboard and Moveable Up and Down. Lap robes have a disagreeable habit of slipping off to the ground and in cases where the occupant of the carriage or sleigh has occasion to leave the vehicle frequently the time required to arrange this robe is considerable. A Minnesota man has gotten out a holder for lap robes that seems to provide against these emergencies. It consists of a frame of rods that is hinged to the bottom of the dashboard and movable up and down. The robe is spread over this frame and when not in use the frame can be pushed up out of the way. On returning to the carriage the owner has but to seat himself, draw down the frame with one movement and the lap robe is draped comfortably over him. The ends may be tucked in or not, as the weather demands. To prevent the robe from slipping from the frame it can be fastened to the top, and the whole drapey thereby made entirely secure.—Boston Post
